Rankins Springs

The second oldest township in Carrathool Shire, Rankins Springs is surrounded by picturesque hills. John Oxley was the first white man to visit the Rankins Springs area in 1817, and to the west of the village, on the highway, a monument to Oxley is incorporated into the rest area. Rankins Springs is well known for its prolific bird life, with a number of bird viewing platforms located around the village. The heritage trail tells more of the history of the village.
